Twenty years is a long time... or not so long depending on your point of view.

To spend two decades doing something you love, it’s not long at all.

On September 17, 2011, The Able Trust held its annual Ability Celebration at Disney’s Contemporary Resort in Buena Vista, Florida. This year’s theme, 20 Years: Changing Lives, Changing Businesses, Changing Communities, was more than fitting, considering the thousands of lives impacted by programs supported by The Able Trust. Nearly 150 gathered to show their support for The Able Trust and its mission.

It was a night of reflection and joy, emceed by Master of Ceremonies and Honorary Chair Jim Payne of WESH-2 TV Orlando. A random encounter volunteering for the Special Olympics years ago sparked Jim’s interest in the cause of supporting Floridians with disabilities.

“It is my honor to be here tonight, and help celebrate the work of this great organization,” he said during the opening moments of the event.

Other prominent personalities also graced the stage throughout the night. Former Speaker of the Florida House Allan Bense served as the keynote speaker for the evening, lauding The Able Trust and encouraging the staff and supporters to continue in their mission of creating job opportunities for Floridians with disabilities.

2011 Corporate Champion, Publix Super Markets, was represented by CEO Ed Crenshaw, who accepted the award for his company. A long-time supporter of diversity in all its forms, Publix was the perfect fit for this year’s award. Many businesses talk

A Message from the President

In mid-September I had the privilege of attending a presentation by noted economist and professor, John N. Doggett. Mr. Doggett, JD, MBA is a senior lecturer in Global Management, Entrepreneurship & Sustainable Energy at the University of Texas in Austin, and spoke to the Florida Chamber of Commerce about Florida’s Economic Future. He talked about the countries in the world that are not economically suffering, that have been growing in spite of the recession in other parts of the world. Countries like China, India, and Brazil have maintained their respective technological progress, and never stopped to rest like other counties that took a booming economy for granted. Here are some of the statistics.

China’s GDP grew at a 10.3% rate in 2010; India’s growth rate was 10.4%; Brazil was 7.5%. During 2010, GDP in the US grew only 2.8%. With those growth rates, China could become the largest economy in the world, and India could be #2, both ahead of the US. These are productive countries, paying intense attention to technology and its role in the economic health of its citizens and businesses. For example, cell phone use in China grew from 15 million users in 1997, to 875 million users by the end of 2010, with 303,226 new cell phone users added per day. India went from 340,000 users in 1997 to 827 million by 2010, adding 633,333 new users per day. Brazil ships orange juice to other countries (including the US) using super tankers. China has 6 of the 15 tallest buildings in the world. All three of these countries have enjoyed growth in construction and have made extensive use of technology in the process.

The message to the US and to organizations like The Able Trust that embrace a mission of helping citizens to find successful employment is that jobs will be heavily in the technology sector, and if we want to compete globally for business (and jobs) as well as nationally, we need to equip those we serve, Floridians with disabilities, to compete at the level of technology that is present in competing countries. As an organization that serves people with disabilities, we are often dismayed by their lack of access to technology. Many of the students in our HSHT program do not have a computer at home, and those that do, often do not have DSL or even dial-up access to the internet. Thus a part of our efforts through our internal programs and in working with those programs we help to fund around the state will have to be dedicated to increasing the technological capabilities of Floridians with disabilities. That means training as well as equipment, and importantly the knowledge of how critical technological savvy is to a successful career.

Although I do believe we could lose some of our social and interaction skills in the process, being able to understand and manage the modern tools of success is basic to being as efficient, productive, and in demand as possible. We want all of those we serve to be all they can be, and our work, through Able Trust internal programs and through programs we help to fund, should have always have a technology component. And we’ll continue to hone social skills in the process.

Kindest regards,

Susanne F. Homant, MBA, DPA
President & CEO

The Able Trust acknowledges Representative W. Keith Perry and the instrumental role he played in the passage of House Bill 811, a revision of previous provisions for distribution of specified funds that benefit The Able Trust.

A Habitat for Humanity employee shared her story of perseverance and triumph.

WESH-2 TV news anchor Jim Payne served as Honorary Chair and Master of Ceremonies.

Former Speaker of the Florida House Allan Bense challenged the audience to continue their support of the work of The Able Trust in his keynote address.

about diversity, but Publix is a company that has largely built its reputation on customer service, he said.

“Publix realizes the need to be able to serve a diverse customer base and have people working for us that resemble that base.”

Another Florida-based corporation, Darden Restaurants, echoes some of the same sentiments, resulting in Julio Suarez, Director of Diversity Outreach, receiving the 2011 Executive Champion award. Both award winners have been staunch supporters of initiatives such as Florida Disability Employment Awareness Month/Disability Mentoring Day (DEAM/DMD) and the Florida Youth Leadership Forum (YLF), recognizing the importance of accessing an untapped source of loyal, dedicated employees to keep their companies running.

At the close of the night’s festivities, the audience was graced by the words of a young woman who, despite many challenges, has not lost her zeal for life nor her desire to help those in need. Sarah Goldman, a graduate of The Able Trust’s YLF program, inspired the crowd with her determination to teach children with disabilities that there are no limits to the levels of success they can achieve. A junior at the University of Central Florida, Sarah has served as a volunteer at YLF each year since being invited to attend as a delegate in 2007.

“It’s been a long road, and there are so many more successful miles to go! My future is wide open, thanks to The Able Trust for changing my life and helping me to succeed.”
Grantee Spotlight: Beacon College

by Guenevere Crum

Beacon College in Leesburg, FL, received a grant in the spring of 2011 to provide employment assistance for students and alumni of this ground-breaking higher education facility for students with learning disabilities. Funding from The Able Trust has created a Life Transition Coach that provides job placement, support and follow-up for graduating students, and additional support for alumni entrepreneurs.

An example of the college’s impact on students can be found in Marissa, a senior majoring in Computer Information Systems who has achieved an outstanding 3.91 GPA. She recently began a Graphic Design internship at a magazine production enterprise in Lake County, which has provided her with valuable hands-on graphic design and digital media experience for her resume. Marissa has also taken on additional responsibilities at Beacon’s computer lab as a monitor. The Life Transition Coach is supporting Marissa during her internship experience so that she can be successful in her new professional setting, adjusting to her work expectations and new co-workers. Support will continue after graduation when it is time to pull together all of her academic achievements and real-life employment experiences, as Marissa searches for the right professional position in this ultra-competitive job market.

Beacon College is accredited by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, and is the only four-year college in the country offering students with learning disabilities both bachelor and Associate of Arts degrees. The Able Trust is proud to assist in the expansion of the Career Development program for students enrolled at Beacon College in Lake County.

The career development and job placement services provided by Beacon College have impacted many lives like Marissa’s.

The Able Trust has awarded more than $28 million to grantees across the state of Florida, enabling approximately 2,000 Floridians with disabilities to enter the workforce each year.

Grantee Spotlight: Hope Clubhouse

by Guenevere Crum

Hope Clubhouse of Southwest Florida, Inc. is a new grantee to The Able Trust, and received a $30,000 grant in January 2011 for a Transitional Employment program for individuals with mental health disabilities in Lee, Collier, and Charlotte counties.

The clubhouse is located in Fort Myers, and serves as a place where individuals living with mental illness can be reintegrated into the community. Clubhouse members take an active approach to acquiring these life skills through participating in work, education, and social events in a caring and respectful setting.

The Clubhouse is working on establishing partnerships with area employers, and one of the first companies is Scott Fischer Enterprises, who works closely with Harley Davidson Motorcycles.

John, a member of the clubhouse, recently gained employment at the local Harley dealership, working in the Accounting and Human Resource departments. Prior to joining Hope Clubhouse, John spent nearly seven years unemployed; rarely going outside. Through the help of the Hope Clubhouse he has made great strides in recovery, managing his condition by participating in the employment skills program daily. He has regained the confidence and social skills necessary to become a successful employee, but most importantly, he is the happiest he has been in many years.
A Veteran’s Story

“Mentoring Day at Florida Power & Light was great, wonderful. We talked about my work experience and I distributed my resume. From the moment I got there until the moment I left, I knew that I was in the right place. Because of the training they offer their customer service staff, I know I can become an even better customer service professional. All day, I thought, ‘This is the employer I want to work for.’ During Mentoring Day, it felt more like a small business than a big corporation. They genuinely wanted to help the mentees.

My mentor was a fantastic person. She took me to one of her meetings with team members about Smart Grid planning. She took it upon herself to help me find opportunities in the company and went online to find customer service positions – I left with several new contacts. Another mentor invited me to come back to experience his department as well, since he wasn’t scheduled as a mentor that day.

The mentoring team filmed a video interview at the end of the day. During the video, they asked me how they could improve Disability Mentoring Day. I suggested that they do it more than once a year, perhaps every six months, so more people with disabilities could be exposed to opportunities in their company. This Disability Mentoring Day experience really opened the door for me. Now I just need to get through the door.”

Florida High School/High Tech: Promoting Quality High-tech Careers for Florida’s Students with Disabilities

by Allison Chase

According to the US Department of Labor, 50 percent of sustained economic expansion comes from jobs in the areas of science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM). Currently, only 5 percent of US workers are employed in STEM careers. The National Science Foundation reports that the percentage of students studying math and science has decreased from 21 percent in 1980 to 16 percent today.

Not only is it critical to increase the numbers of students pursuing STEM careers, but it is important to bring diversity to the population of people in STEM careers.

“Diversity drives innovation and…its absence imperils our designs, our products and, most of all, our creativity – all components of competitiveness.” (President and CEO, NACME (National Action Council for Minorities in Engineering, Inc., Dr. Irving Pressley McPhail)

The Florida High School/High Tech Program (HS/HT) is designed to expose students with disabilities to the knowledge, skills, and experiences necessary to enter the 21st century workforce in technology and science-related careers. Core features of the program – job shadowing, industry site visits, mentoring, and internships – are critical program components that help students form postsecondary education and employment goals and transition from school into the world of work.

The HS/HT program is based on the five nationally recognized, evidenced based Guideposts for Success: School-Based Preparatory Experiences, Career Preparation & Work-Based Learning, Connecting Activities, Youth Leadership & Development, and Family Involvement & Supports. Research has proven that each guidepost is essential to what youth with disabilities need to succeed in adulthood.

2011 Statewide Outcomes

During the 2010-2011 school year, the Florida HS/HT Program served 1,711 students with disabilities in 35 Florida counties.

The Florida HS/HT Impact

- The Florida HS/HT Program experienced a high school dropout rate of less than 1 percent.
- 74 percent of Florida HS/HT graduates entered postsecondary education or employment (unduplicated) as compared to the Florida Department of Education rate of 50 percent of graduates with disabilities (unduplicated).
- Approximately 47 percent of Florida HS/HT graduates entered postsecondary education after graduation compared to only 27 percent of other graduates with disabilities in Florida.
- Services were provided in 305 high schools and alternative education settings including Department of Juvenile Justice facilities.
• 199 high school students (representing grades 9-12) secured employment.

• Disability diversity of enrolled students includes: autism spectrum disorder, 6 percent; emotional disturbance, 7 percent; hearing impairment including deafness, 2 percent; intellectual disability, 7 percent; other health impairment including attention deficit/hyperactivity disorder, 11 percent; orthopedic impairment, 2 percent; specific learning disability, 50 percent; speech or language impairment, 4 percent; traumatic brain injury, 1 percent; visual impairment including blindness, 1 percent.

Local Impact

On October 5, 2011, the Center for Independent Living of North Central Florida was recognized as the 2011 High School/High Tech Site of the Year. The CIL of NE Florida partners with employers, families, and other community organizations to provide services to youth with disabilities in Alachua, Bradford, Levy, Marion, and Putnam counties. As a result of the HS/HT services in this area, there was a 100 percent graduation rate for high school seniors and 71 percent entered postsecondary education or employment.

Broadening Horizons: Florida's Ready to Achieve Mentoring Program (RAMP)

Any huge transformation starts with a simple idea. Positive change can happen if that idea is nurtured and its components are carefully planned. Through a process we call RAMPformation, Florida’s Ready to Achieve Mentoring Program (RAMP) is creating change in the perceptions of employers, educators, mentors, staff, and the community. More importantly, it is helping to transform the negative self-perceptions of youth with disabilities into more positive, constructive ones.

Jerry has been in the Florida High School/High Tech (HS/HT) program for several years, but only this past year (since he enrolled as a RAMP mentee) did he really decide to be more open to new experiences. The transformation of his attitude has really opened doors for him. For a young man who had never traveled outside the small rural town of Fort White, Florida, he is really going places now. Playing football and attending Future Farmers of America (FFA) were Jerry’s only hobbies prior to RAMP. This year, he stretched his horizons, and has learned to build a robot, prepare and deliver speeches to an audience, and has become quite the world traveler. Working with his teammates as they built their robot, Jerry’s leadership skills began to shine when the team decided he would be the best candidate to “drive” the robot at competition.

“I didn’t realize there were any other ways to compete besides football!” He said.

Jerry has driven the robot competitively at several competitions, attending the VEX Robotics 2011 World Championships as a participant-observer. This past summer, Jerry was a delegate at the Florida Youth Leadership Forum (YLF) in Tallahassee, where he further honed his leadership skills. On two separate occasions he was invited to Washington DC: once to share a presentation about working as a team to build and compete with a robot, and another time to participate in the Youth Summit: Voices in Action meeting. Jerry was nominated by his counselors to be a participant in this forum that allows the opinions of youth leaders to be heard by policymakers and leaders in education.

Florida’s Ready to Achieve Mentoring Program allows mentees a jumping off point for their dreams – ideas they imagine as impossible for now, are being made possible during a transformative process we like to call RAMPformation!
Renewed Faith for the Future - The 2011 Florida Youth Leadership Forum

by Ray Ford, Jr.

On July 20, nearly 50 high school students from across the state of Florida embarked on an incredible journey. Leaving the friendly confines of home and the loving arms of parents, they came to Tallahassee to participate in the 2011 Florida Youth Leadership Forum (YLF) sponsored by The Able Trust. For four days, forum delegates learned the importance of education, advocacy, and leadership while forging friendships that will last a lifetime.

“I feel like something new and great has appeared in my life,” delegate David Senokossoff said. “Thank you YLF, and all the supporters. I feel like I’m not going to forget the last four days, nor the people who made a difference in that short time.”

Able Trust Board Chair Richard Cole addressed the group during Capitol Day, stressing the importance of leadership, encouraging them to continue following the path they’ve chosen.

“You were selected to attend the 2011 Florida Youth Leadership Forum because you demonstrated leadership qualities,” Cole said in the House Chambers of the Florida Capitol. “You, the people here today, are our future. You are the leaders of tomorrow.”

Delegates participated in a mock legislative session later that morning, giving them a unique insight on the decisions that affect the lives of millions of Floridians each day. Representative Marti Coley made a surprise visit, further extolling the students on the leadership qualities that helped earn their selection to attend the forum. She reminded them that getting the highest level of education possible would cement their futures.

“I see education as your opportunity for a future,” Coley said. “Your education helps determine and shape what kind of future you will have.”

The next day, delegates spent the morning doing just that, participating in a career fair at the University Center Club on the campus of Florida State University. More than 20 mentors from 13 different vocations shared their experiences, personal and professional, as students explored careers ranging from Agriculture and Environment to Sports. Afterward, a crowd of nearly 200 attended a mentors’ luncheon where keynote speaker Richard Salem, founder of Enable America, gave an emotional account of the baseball accident during a high school game that took his sight. Salem urged the group to work hard to overcome the obstacles standing in the way of their dreams, never forgetting to help make things better for those coming behind them.

“In order to be a leader, you have to take some baby steps,” Salem said. “You have to take some chances. Most importantly, you’ve got to build a leadership base that follows what you’ve done; lay a foundation for others to follow.”

They learned so much in such a short amount of time. In-between seminars about managing their finances, college life, dinner and business etiquette and disability resources, a subtle transformation took place. Over the course of four days, the faith that others displayed in them was mingled with a new-found faith in themselves. Suddenly they realized that they were not alone in their plight; that there were others fighting the same fight.

“(I’ve) just got to say YLF is the best thing that ever happened to me,” delegate Mercela Miguel said, describing her experience. “Now I can open up to people and not care what they say. I am me and only me. Thank you YLF, you have changed me and I am happy.”

Memorial Gifts

There are many ways for you to make a gift in remembrance of someone special that will have meaningful significance for years to come. Here are a few options to consider:

Make a Deductible Gift and Receive Life Income
You may wish to make a memorial gift while providing current life income for yourself. If your memorial gift is made to fund a charitable remainder trust, you can receive income monthly, quarterly or annually. You receive a charitable deduction for your gift this year and avoid paying capital gains tax on the sale of your appreciated assets. The remainder passes to us as a gift in memory of your loved one. Please contact us for more information on charitable trust plans.

A Memorial Gift of Cash or Property
A gift of cash is one of the simplest ways to remember your loved one or friend. You receive a tax deduction for the value of your gift to The Able Trust. Please designate the person you wish to remember and the best way that we can honor them. If you are making a memorial gift of appreciated stock or real estate, your deduction may depend on the type of property gifted. Please call us to discuss the treatment of your gift and the best way to transfer your property to us.
